

THE ARIZONA REPUBLICAN.

ISSUED EVERY DAY IN THE YEAR

BY THE REPUBLICAN PUBLISHING COMPANY.

Entered at the postoffice at Phoenix, Arizona as mail matter of the second class.

THE REPUBLICAN has its own special wire connecting its office direct with San Francisco and Chicago, and through these cities with all the great news centers of the world. Besides the Associated Press report it receives more special dispatches every day than any paper west of St. Louis, outside of San Francisco.

SILVER, COPPER AND LEAD.

Silver was quoted yesterday at $1.02 per ounce; copper at $15.00 per 100 pounds, and lead at $4.67 1/2 per 100 pounds.

Says the Buckeye Blade: "If there is a Republican in this county who believes that Maricopa County is not overwhelmingly Democratic, let him size up the political persuasion of the present Grand Jury."

Pima and Cochise Counties seem to be bidding against each other in their efforts to capture the Globe trade. The old Wilcox road is to be improved and shortened in consequence of preparations in Pima County to open a highway between Tucson and the copper camp.

AGRICULTURAL Agent Charles D. Poston is receiving inquiries about sugar beet culture, and requests for seed from the farmers of the valley. We note this fact with satisfaction, and hope to see many packages used in experiments. The Republican office has some of the seed on hand, and will distribute it as far as it will go.

E. G. FRANKENBURG, who has a splendid ranch a few miles east of Tempe, from three acres of peaches saved about one-half the crop above those sold green and used in his family. This one-half of the product of the three acres was dried and sent to market, netting above all expenses a return of $450, or $150 an acre. With peaches, apricots, Bartlett pears or raisins in five to forty-acre tracts land owners of this valley can readily reap a profit of from $100 to $500 an acre.

It would be well were the coming Legislature to make provision for a compilation of archaeological data in reference to the ancient inhabitants of Arizona, and for the institution of a systematic collection of those relics of the ancient races found in every corner of the Territory. Such a collection could be placed under the care of the professors of either the University or Normal School, and would form a nucleus from which would start all historical and scientific research into the interesting and important study of the primeval races of the Southwest. No land is richer in ruins of a past civilization than is that which surrounds us, and diligent investigation should not cease until the secrets of the past ages are laid bare.

CONGRESS is again in session, though the wheels of legislation are as yet revolving but slowly. The short session, free as it is in action by reason of the clearance of the tariff and silver bills, will see the passage of many measures of benefit to the people. The Republican majority in the House, now that their reign is about to end, will lose no time in putting through those measures to which the party stands pledged. Many of these are referred to in President Harrison's message. Any obstructionist tactics by the opposition will prove of little avail and before the session closes a large amount of helpful legislation will have been accomplished. Among the measures already referred to are, an equitable readjustment of the membership of the House of Representatives, according to the figures of the last census; the act for the purification of elections, rendering the passage of every voter to the ballot-box free and uncorrupted; a copyright law, whereby American authors are to be secured valuable privileges abroad, by the aid of reciprocal legislation; a freer and more satisfactory provision in the silver act, looking toward the free coinage of silver, and many other acts too numerous to specify at this writing. It is not unreasonable to believe, judging from the tone of the President's message and of the report of the Secretary of the Interior, that a feeling exists in Washington favorable to the admission of Arizona as a State. Then, if, among the minor matters considered, the North and South railroad bill were passed, the people of Arizona would indeed deem the present Congress a body worthy of all praise.

THE NEW NAVY.

The report of the Secretary of the Navy which has reached THE REPUBLICAN in pamphlet form, is a careful compilation and interesting review of the work of that department of the public service to which the popular eye has been most frequently turned of late. The possession of a strong navy is such a tangible and effective demonstration of a nation's power that the citizens of the Union have watched with interest and pride the growth of America's flotilla of war ships.

For many years subsequent to the Civil war, American war ships, though the best when built, had fallen so far behind the naval progress of the world as to be a laughing stock abroad and a humiliation at home. Now, under the intelligent direction of enthusiastic officials and the warm support of a patriotic Congress, there are coming into existence fleets of battle ships and cruisers that have no superiors in their class upon the waters of any sea. To use the Secretary's summary:

During the twenty months covered by the present administration, nine new ships have been put in commission; four, including one monitor, have been advanced to a point where they are just about to go into commission; five are in such a condition that they will shortly be waiting only for their armor; seven have been built from the keel up, of which the Texas and Monterey are nearly ready for launching; and the five cruisers are well advanced; while of the six others previously authorized, all have been designed and advertised, and all but one, the ram, have been contracted for and are actually under construction.

The Secretary is thus enabled to promise at the naval review specified in the act providing for the World's Fair, there may be present thirty-six modern vessels of war that will stand in no mean light, as compared with those of other nations.

During the preceding Administration, the plans for several new war vessels were secured from abroad and the Charleston and others are built upon English lines. The English navy was held up as a criterion and references were constantly being made to the work of that nation in naval architecture. Today, in the important matter of speed, Secretary Tracy says:

It is no longer necessary, in considering the speed of the new ships of the Navy, to make comparisons with foreign vessels. We have now our own standard, and we have the right to congratulate ourselves that the standard is unsurpassed by any other navy in the world.

The report continues, in a manner that is warming to the heart of every patriot, to show that in speedy cruisers and powerful battle ships the Union will soon regain the eminence she once so proudly held of "Mistress of the Seas." Yet, the closing remarks of the Secretary are conservative and discreet and should be noted:

In conclusion I would repeat here the proposition that was laid down at the opening of my report last year, that "the purpose for which the United States maintains a navy is not conquest, but defense." The best guaranty of peace is a judicious expenditure for the navy, such as will meet the necessities of the country. At the present time it has not such force, nor will it have the force required even when all the ships now authorized are completed. The problem of naval construction has been simplified almost beyond belief in the last eight years. It only remains to add to the number of vessels of types already in existence. The price is not too high to pay if it affords the means whereby the United States, for the first time in many years, may be enabled to preserve and defend its rights. War is a great calamity, but it is not the greatest calamity that can befall a free, intelligent, and self-respecting people.

NEIGHBORLY COMMENDATION.

[Mohave County Miner.]

THE ARIZONA REPUBLICAN has entered upon its second volume. THE REPUBLICAN is the only daily in the Territory that receives the full press reports and it is a credit to the whole Territory. We congratulate THE REPUBLICAN on its success.

[Tempe News.]

THE ARIZONA REPUBLICAN, on November 19, entered upon its second volume. The high standard of journalism which marked the first issue of THE REPUBLICAN has been fully sustained and improved upon. That THE REPUBLICAN is a first-class newspaper in every respect, no fair man can dispute, and the News wishes it that long life and measure of prosperity which its labors for this valley and Territory truly merit.

[Tombstone Epitaph.]

THE ARIZONA REPUBLICAN has entered on its second volume, and from present indications it has come to stay, of which we are heartily glad. At first we were rather prejudiced against it on account of its policy, but always recognized it as the best newspaper in Arizona. Since the retirement of Governor Wolfley, and consequent change in tone, we have been an admirer of the paper. In the late campaign it did splendid service and established itself as the leading Republican paper of the Territory, as it is the leading general newspaper. According to the figures presented its success has been remarkable, and the Epitaph tenders its congratulations.

[Nogales Record.]

THE ARIZONA DAILY REPUBLICAN has entered upon its second volume. Owing to the magnitude of the undertaking, it was predicted by numerous papers in the Territory that THE REPUBLICAN would be short lived—three months being the limit. But the Record congratulates the founders, and those at present in charge of THE REPUBLICAN, for the courage displayed and the success of the undertaking. THE REPUBLICAN is one of the Record's most valued exchanges, and has been so considered since the receipt of its first issue. It is unusually wide-awake, fearless, and progressive and contains all the latest news, local, Territorial, general and telegraphic. It reaches Nogales the next day after issue, thus giving our citizens the news two days in advance of the San Francisco and Eastern papers. THE REPUBLICAN has acted very friendly with the country press in the exchanging of the daily and weekly publications—much in contrast with some of the Territorial dailies, which are not "built that way."
